5. Proposed OS Move

In a continuing effort to more efficiently utilize Headquarters office space, the DDCI is considering moving the Office of Security (with the exception of the Community Security Group and Headquarters Security Branch) to the [REDACTED] Building. The move would be contingent on locating new office space for OD&E components currently occupying the [REDACTED] Building. This proposal is based on the long-held belief that almost all components of the Office of Security must accompany Security Records Division in any relocation. Although the DDCI's proposal is not absolutely firm (certain considerations regarding SRD and Polygraph Branch space and office reconfiguration must be addressed), it appears that this move is very probable. Under current planning, the move would not occur for approximately 1 1/2 - 2 years. (C)

6. Mid-Career Course

Mr. Gambino addressed the Mid-Career Course at the [REDACTED] on 29 March 1979. Much discussion centered around personnel management planning programs in the various directorates. He expressed great pride in the Office of Security's personnel management planning procedures and, while continued improvement is needed, Mr. Gambino felt that the Office of Security is "out front" and sets an example for the personnel management programs of other Agency directorates. The Director of Security and the DDA will furnish testimony in support of the need for long-sought expanded firearms authority for the CIA which will hopefully be a part of the FY 1980 Intelligence Authorization Bill.
